I know you ran away from home when you were 13 because your parents took away your mobile phone.

I know you once dressed up as Superman and climbed up onto the roof of your house for a dare.

I know you ate a snail from your garden when you were 15.

I know you think I am horrible.

I know you once thought you were ugly.

I know you once set the microwave on fire at home and didn't tell your parents.

I know you had detention more than anyone else when you were at school.

I know you once drew on your friend with marker pen while they were sleeping.

I know you got asked to leave your last job.

I know you think girls are rubbish at football.

I know you always tried to avoid doing homework by pretending to be sick.

I know you once had a fight with your friend and boasted about it afterwards.

I know you lied about your age to get into the cinema to watch a 16-rated film.

I know you hid your parent's car keys to make them late for work.

I know you were expelled from your first secondary school.
